

READY NOW FOR SECOND CHAPTER

Investigating Committee Will Try to Find When Dairymen Paid Councilmen.

ORDINANCE RUSHED THROUGH

Health Board Measure Presented by Dr. Reade at Request of Mr. Wise.

The second chapter in the Pollock-Wise investigation will be written tonight. Further testimony is to be taken before the special committee appointed by the Common Council to investigate the allegation that the two Councilmen-at-large received a fee of $500 for securing the passage of an amendment to a city ordinance in relation to the feeding of milk cows at dairies licensed to sell milk in the city. So far the evidence has shown no conflict of fact.

The two attorneys admit the employment by certain dairymen, but claimed that they were retained to represent the dairymen before the Board of Health and Chief Health Officer. They assert that they declined a similar fee offered to secure an amendment to the ordinance, and that the ordinance was later amended on recommendation of the Board of Health, without their assistance and without their vote. The Council was put on notice that they had been employed as attorneys by the dairymen, and they were for that reason excused from voting.

So far the only witnesses examined have been dairymen, mainly those who contributed to the fund raised. Two of the three men who started the movement have corroborated the statement of Mr. Wise that the employment was for services before the Health Board and that Mr. Wise declined to accept the fee. The other two men, who contributed to the fund, were members of the Council. Others did not know that the ordinance had to be amended, but thought that Dr. Reade or the Health Board had entire charge of matters relating to dairies and could change the regulations at will. They contributed to a fund being raised in order to secure permission to feed distillery waste without molestation, wherever such a permission was to be had.

Seeks to Establish Date. A line of questioning by the City Attorney at the former sitting, which will be followed up, is to establish the dates of the various payments. Witnesses who had contributed by check were asked to bring the canceled checks tonight. The point is to establish what has been alleged that the dairymen paid over the money after the Mayor signed the amended ordinance and that the lawyers took the employment to get permission, from the Health Board or otherwise, the fee to be conditioned on their success. Besides the allegation that the money was paid after the ordinance was approved, another damaging point alleged is that Mr. Wise brought the ordinance, as re-drafted and recommended by the Health Board, to the meeting of the Council and secured its adoption under suspension of the rules. The City Attorney is allowing it to come up in the usual form on recommendation of the Board of Health and is referred to the Committee on Ordinance, Charter and Reform or to some other Council committee.

Wise Championed Measure. The admitted facts are that Mr. Wise brought the ordinance to the meeting of the Council, and as the roll was being called, asked Mr. Cutchins to introduce it. Mr. Cutchins did not, but had a brother employed in the office of the Board of Health, and did not wish to appear as its champion. Mr. Cutchins, however, introduced the paper to Dr. Reade, who presented it when his name was called, asked and secured a suspension of the rules, and the ordinance was, on his motion, put on its passage and adopted without objection and practically without debate.

Subsequently passed the Board of Aldermen and was signed by the Mayor, and it has been stated that during the period between the adoption of the Board and the endorsement of the ordinance and its signature by the Mayor, Mr. Wise more than once called on the Mayor, but that he had been signed. It does not appear, however, that he used any influence with the Mayor, or even argued for its adoption. The ordinance was signed, and it had been signed, and either by coincidence or design, it appears that the money of the dairymen was paid the day after the ordinance was signed. Those who heard the first chapter of the evidence have expressed the opinion that no illegality has been shown; nothing of which the grand jury or the Commonwealth's Attorney could take cognizance, and that the question has become one of legal ethics and councilmanic propriety in which the City Council and the legal profession are the judges of their own members.

HURT BY STREET CAR

Rukey Overturned and Occupants Thrown Down Embankment.

Coming back from Forest Hill Park at 6:30 o'clock last night, car No. 333, in charge of Motorman W. M. Seaton and Conductor P. W. Wilcox, collided with a buggy in which J. H. Spears and his son, W. I. Spears, were driving, both of the vehicle traveling in the same direction.

According to some of the passengers, there was ample room for the car to pass in safety on Semmes Avenue, near the car barn, but it was said that young Mr. Spears, who was driving, tried to cut across the tracks, then seeing the danger, turned quickly to avoid a crash. He was not quite quick enough, however, the car striking the buggy and hurling it with the horse and occupants down a slight embankment. The buggy was badly damaged, and J. H. Spears, who is fifty-two years old, was badly shaken up and bruised, though it was said that none of his bones was broken. His son's injuries were said to be trivial.

J. H. Spears is a barber and lives at 14 North Seventeenth Street.

SIX CHILDREN FAIL TO GET BACK HOME

Little Girl Picked Up Among Lost Unable to Give Her Name.

SEARCHING FOR OTHERS

Overjoyed Parents Find One in Home of Policeman Who Rescued Her.

Six children failed to return home yesterday, and fearful parents reported them to the Second Police Station as lost, strayed or stolen. Three of the children are from the same family, the father being Avedes Zartarian, of 118 East Broad Street. One, Fannie Miller, three years old, of 617 North Third Street, was found yesterday afternoon, and was taken to the home of Policeman Gentry, where later she was claimed by her overjoyed parents. Another girl, daughter of Mr. Morrow, of East Broad Street, failed to return, and whose name the police have not yet been able to discover and about whom there has been no report, was picked up early in the afternoon by E. B. Thompson, of 193 West Grace Street. She had been wandering up and down that block since 10 o'clock in the morning, trying to find her mother. She attracted the attention of several residents in the neighborhood, and finally some one asked Mr. Thompson to take her in charge.

Couldn't Give Her Name. The girl was very tired, and trustfully placed her hand in Mr. Thompson's hand when he approached her. She told him she lived on Marshall Street, and that she was on Marshall Street, then, and pointing westward, she said she lived "up there." Mr. Thompson walked with her for several blocks, until she was too tired to walk further. He let her rest, and then took her to the Second Police Station. The police tried to learn her name, but she spoke too indistinctly to give her last name. Her first name she gave as Sophie. Finally they called on a citizen, and he spoke to her in Yiddish. She understood, and answered him in the same tongue. But still she could not tell her name with sufficient clearness.

Finally, Louis Sonnenberg, of 402 West Marshall Street, took her to his home, and at a late hour last night he was still with her. He said she said her sister lost her, and in her childhood was, scolded the sister for her carelessness.

No News from These. The police had not been notified last night of whether the Zartarian and Morrow children had returned, and an all-night search for them was kept up. The eldest Zartarian child is nine years old, and the others range down to three. There does not seem to be any suggestion of kidnapping. It was believed that they simply strayed too far from home and became bewildered when out of sight of their own doorstep.

The police have never before in a single day had so many children reported to them as lost. It was probably the bright sunshine and the warm weather which brought them out and led them off, but the parents are much alarmed, and visions of accidents haunt them before their minds are cooled.

But little Sophie took her plight very

TELEPHONE GIRLS DAZED BY RUSH OF COMET JABBER

Twelve Thousand People Jumped on Wires Telling Friends to Have a Look at Sky, Paralyzing Service—Second Show Called Off.

Some government expert figured out the other day exactly how many telephone calls a switchboard operator could handle in sixty seconds. He figured it down to a grand total, but he did not take Halley's comet into his calculations. That vagabond of the skies almost annihilated the local exchange Saturday night for more than an hour while friends were telephoning friends to have a look. Manager Tanner mopped his brow after it was over and said that it was the biggest rush since that rainy day during the Confederate Reunion week three years ago.

Expecting the return of the trouble, an extra force of operators was put on duty last night, these experts running as first section of Halley's south-bound limited. When the clouds gathered in the spot where the nebula was expected to appear, the operators heaved a sigh. "Don't look like a big night tonight," they said. And it wasn't. But Saturday night

Just before the head of the thing shot out from the blue the wires had an attack of palsy; the next moment they were paralyzed. There are 12,216 telephones in Richmond. In five minutes it seemed that somebody was being attacked at each receiver. Stunned by the sudden attack, the operators yelled murder, and in another moment all the helpers around the building were sent to the aid.

With everybody calling at once, the wires were unable to meet the unexpected pressure, and while girls were swearing soft suffragette things un-calmly, and seemed ready to trust any one who came along. She was a bit tired and hungry, and seemed glad when they tucked her in bed and put her to sleep with a Yiddish hymn.

NEGRO KILLED IN BOARDING HOUSE

Murdered While He Lay in Bed, but Man Who Did It Escaped.

George Lewis, colored, was shot in the head at 3 o'clock yesterday morning by an unknown negro in the house at 1447 East Franklin Street, and died at 10:30 o'clock in the City Hospital.

Shortly after the murder, police officers raided the house, and, being unable to secure any information that would lead to the identification of the murderer, they placed everybody in the house, including the proprietor, R. H. Kelley, under arrest. There were five men and two women, and the house was left vacant. All were charged with being suspicious characters. The police will endeavor to hold them as long as possible, in order that they may obtain information which will lead to the capture of the unknown assailant. Ball was allowed to none.

Lewis went to the boarding house to get a room for the night. The murderer said that Lewis could go to his room, but he would not presume in the light of modern knowledge to preach a sermon from the sixteenth verse of the sixteenth chapter of Mark, seeing that the Revised Version shows that that verse was not in the original at all.

No Contrived Literary. "We know," he said, "that the apocalyptic visions of the Book of Revelation are not to be taken as prophecies of the life to come. The authorship of various books of the Bible is, to say the least of it, uncertain, and no timeline, he said, he was advised the times would take the Book of Genesis as a literal account of the creation or regard the Book of Jonah as of historical value.

"Young people," he continued, "who have been to college or university, have a hard time of it when they are told to believe the things which men of this time know, and which disagree with some of the religious doctrines of the past, for fear of offending some old saint. It were better, he argued, to run this risk rather than try to lead people in intellectual darkness.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Pulpit Banked With Palms and Flowers at Westminster Church.

Children's day exercises were held yesterday morning at Westminster Presbyterian Church. The attendance was large both on the part of the Sunday school and congregation, and the building being taxed to its utmost capacity. The pulpit was beautifully banked with palms, potted plants and flowers. The exercises were of an interesting character, many of the children taking part in recitations and songs. The pastor, Rev. J. Y. Fair, D. D., spoke to the children on the text, Matthew xviii, 2, "And Jesus called little child unto Him." The contribution of the school amounted to $17, which was toward a fund for building a girls' school at Nagoya, Japan. The total enrollment of the school was reported as 120.

On next Sunday Dr. Fair will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

DUTY TO PREACH ON LOCAL CRIME

Dr. MacLachlan Raps Editors Who Think Ministers Ignorant of World's Evils.

MUST PURIFY ENVIRONMENT

Has First Hand Information About Richmond—Creeds of the Past.

Duties of ministers in the cure of souls was the subject of a vigorous sermon preached last night by Rev. H. D. C. MacLachlan at the Seventh Street Christian Church. He proclaimed it to be his opinion that preachers should take into account modern knowledge and should not require the young who learn the teachings of science and of evolution to conform to the creeds of the past.

Mr. MacLachlan also asserted it to be the duty of the curate of souls to purify the environment of the community in which he labors. He had no patience with the theory that the teachings of the Gospel should be nullified without a protest by the presence of the saloon and of the gambling house and of other resorts of vice. He deplored the "equilibrium" sentiment which would not allow the naming of certain evils, and yet permitted the publication of salacious details of crime and the contamination of the columns of newspapers with patent medicine advertisements.

Preaching as Dictation. He said his papers as dictators who "dare to dictate" to ministers what they should or should not say in the pulpit, and who say that the preachers do not know the evils of the world. He knew enough about matters in Richmond, he said, some of it at first hand, to disabuse his hearers of any such notion should he tell them.

The speaker said he, for one, proposed to do his part to see to it that conditions were made easy to do right and not easy to do wrong.

As to higher criticism, he said that it was serving its purpose in the world. Creeds are changing steadily, and even the Bible is not to be regarded in the light in which it was formerly considered. Not, he said, that it is less God's word, or that it does not contain God's truth, but for instance, he would not presume in the light of modern knowledge to preach a sermon from the sixteenth verse of the sixteenth chapter of Mark, seeing that the Revised Version shows that that verse was not in the original at all.

No Contrived Literary. "We know," he said, "that the apocalyptic visions of the Book of Revelation are not to be taken as prophecies of the life to come. The authorship of various books of the Bible is, to say the least of it, uncertain, and no timeline, he said, he was advised the times would take the Book of Genesis as a literal account of the creation or regard the Book of Jonah as of historical value.

"Young people," he continued, "who have been to college or university, have a hard time of it when they are told to believe the things which men of this time know, and which disagree with some of the religious doctrines of the past, for fear of offending some old saint. It were better, he argued, to run this risk rather than try to lead people in intellectual darkness.

STREET CAR AND BRIDGE MATTERS

Council Committees Wrestle With Important Problems To-Day.

Two subcommittees from the Council Committee on Streets will take up to-day the two most important matters now pending before the City Council. One, headed by Carter C. Jones, of Washington Ward, meets at 4 o'clock to go into the question of a new free bridge to connect Hull street with Fourteenth Street, either on the site or paralleling the present Mayo's Bridge. A tour of inspection will be made of the approaches and surrounding streets on both sides of the river. The other subcommittee, headed by Chairman Adams, will meet at 5 o'clock to take up the question of a new general franchise for the Virginia Railway and Power Company and the consequent rearrangement of street car lines in some sections of the city. The plans of the company were outlined some months ago, and members of the committee have made several tours over the lines which it is proposed to shift.

The Committee on Grounds and Buildings meets to-night at 8 o'clock to act on the report of a subcommittee recommending plans for the proposed new building at the Virginia State Fair Grounds. The Pollock-Wise investigation will sit in the Council chamber and the Committee on Finance will meet at 8 o'clock for a public hearing on pending ordinances.

The Committee on Relief of the Poor meets at the City Home on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock to award quarterly contracts for supplies.

Other meetings scheduled for the week are: Wednesday—Electricity, 8 P. M.; Local Assessments, 8 P. M.; Thursday—Water, 8 P. M.; Friday—St. John's Day, 10 o'clock; 8 P. M.; Ordinance, Charter and Reform, 8 P. M.

One Elling Cut Another. Elling Jones, colored, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of cutting a hole in the roof of the City Hall.

Penick, also colored, at Twenty-Eighth and Dock Streets, Penick received a gash of four or five inches and was taken by Dr. Collins, of the City Ambulance Corps, to the City Hospital for treatment.

Lew Watkins, white, was arrested on suspicion of having stolen a watch from Lawrence Local.

J. J. Franklin was reported by bicycle policemen for speeding his horse on the Boulevard. The bicycle corps is not conniving its operations to automobilists.

Southern Railway Staff to Hold Convention in Richmond To-Morrow.

MANY TECHNICAL PAPERS

President Finley on Program for an Address—To Get Warm Welcome.

Surgeons of the Southern Railway will assemble here to-morrow for their fifteenth annual meeting, the session lasting three days. An extensive program has been prepared and many topics of peculiar interest to the railway surgeon will be discussed. The meetings of the association will be held at the Jefferson.

The Chesapeake and Ohio shows the largest percentage of gain of any of these roads, having increased gross about 20 per cent. to $1,000,000. The Erie, Lake Erie and Nashville has gained 15 per cent.

SMILING GIRL COMING TO BOOST GOOD CHEER GAME

With Mint in One Hand and Rose in the Other, She Merely Wants Smile-Back and Won't Brace You for Even a Simoleon.

Theora is coming. No, she is not another kind of comet, neither is she a "star" arriving to shed her lustre on the local stage. With a rose in one hand and sprig of fresh mint in the other, smiling the broad, sunny smile of the Western girl, Miss Carter will invade Richmond soon if the good word is true. She will visit this city in her official capacity as "national president of the Society of Good Cheer," and will organize here a branch of that organization, which, though it is the very perfection of sweet charity, collects no money, sells neither dolls nor tags, has no funds and wants none.

The only object of this society is to diffuse good cheer. Its members try to cheer up people that are downcast and blue, and to distract business men from too much worry and troubling. The sick, the folks "down on their

SODA SLINGER TELLS HOW BUTTERMILK TRADE BOOMS

Booze Brigadiers Drink It to Kill Thirst, While Thousands Meet Daily at Fountains to Buy Soft Concoctions.

"Ten thousand soft drinks are sold in Richmond every day, on the average," said a veteran soda water dispenser yesterday, who has got the thing figured down, "and on hot summer days that amount is doubled. Somebody is drinking a soda every second of the day, if you work it out that way."

"In the last few years, the 'soda thirst' has grown wonderfully. Most of us can recall when soda fountains were open only in the summer. It used to be the drug clerk in a drug store that did the work, but now soda water mixing is a science and soda water dispensing has become one of the noblest professions. It will not be long until there will be correspondence courses in soda fountain art, and I hope yet to get a S. F. D. degree—Doctor of Soft Drinks."

"Why, in New York, they sell 1,000,000 ice cream sodas every day. The statistics broke down when an effort was made to find out how many soft drinks of every sort were sold in the big town in one day. Figures show that chocolate is the favorite flavor—due to the fact, maybe, that it is considered very nutritive.

"In these days of the high cost of living, the soda fountain comes into money. It is because the soda fountain is competing with the restaurant that you see pie and cake at the fountains. People who have not much money to spend on a feed run in and get an ice cream soda or a glass of milk and a quarter-slice of pie, and manage to live on that until supper. "The steadiest class of trade is made up of the booze brigadiers that are trying to kill off the thirst with buttermilk. The idea got loose in New York that buttermilk can quench the thirst for the red, oily stuff, and ever since the demand for buttermilk has risen. But the ydrink it as if it were medicine, and not as if it made them feel good."

WORK OF NURSES HIGHLY PRAISED

Dr. Hatcher, in Baccalaureate Sermon, Compares Them to Preachers.

Rev. S. C. Hatcher, D. D., pastor of Broad Street Methodist Church, last night preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Memorial Hospital School for Nurses.

Dr. Hatcher delivered a powerful sermon, comparing trained nurses to preachers and doctors and telling them that theirs is a field of opportunity to do good than which there is none greater. Their reward, he said, if their work was done with gentle touch, will be more than pecuniary compensation. It will lie in the grateful hearts of those whom they have nursed and in their own consciousness of a duty well and faithfully done.

The graduating class will give a practical demonstration in the Memorial Hospital amphitheatre at 8:15 o'clock to-night. On Thursday night they will receive their diplomas and class pins at the hands of Dr. Daniel J. Coleman in the John Marshall High School. The Alumnae Association will give a dance in honor of the graduates in the Guerrant Hotel Friday night. On Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock the annual meeting of the alumnae will be held in the Jefferson Hotel, and following this meeting Dr. Lewis C. Boshier, president of the Memorial Hospital, will give a dinner to the graduates.

MAY NOT GET BLAIR

Soothsayer Must First Stand Trial in Ohio Courts.

E. L. Blair, the soothsayer, who knows all the secrets of black art and whose suave manner made William E. Kahn, of 1066 Hull Street, South Richmond, give up $1,000 in October, 1908, will probably never come to Richmond for trial. Mr. Kahn is not sure enough in his identification, it is said, and besides, Blair must stand trial in Youngstown, Ohio, where he is wanted for failing to reveal the secrets he had promised to wrest from the great unknown.

Blair had a smooth tongue and he knew all the sleight-of-hand tricks worth knowing, and then invented some new ones. They reaped him a rich profit until he fell upon evil times, and it is a hard matter to fool a lawyer. A lawyer's fee demands more than promises.

BEATEN WITH BROOMSTICK

James Hicks, Colored, Charged With Brutal Assault on Bettie Price.

James Hicks, colored, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of beating Bettie Price. The woman was so badly injured that Dr. Collins, of the city ambulance corps, had to take her to the City Hospital.

Hicks is alleged to have used a broomstick to beat the stick as well as the woman's head.
